

IDP RELOCATIONS

In September 2013, the Somali Government expressed its desire to restart the stalled Mogadishu internally displaced people (IDP) relocation process. The process was initiated in January 2013, but stalled in July due to the government's inability to provide security in the potential relocation site in Dayniile district.

The process was also dogged by spontaneous evictions and parallel 'relocation' of IDPs by gatekeepers (self-appointed custodians of IDPs), which resulted in the movement of thousands of IDPs to lands between Km7 and Km13, along Afgooye road. The majority of these IDPs were to be moved to Dayniile through the relocation plan.

Due to these developments, the Somalia Humanitarian Country Team (HCT) is reviewing its engagement on the process and is discussing with the government, alternative strategies of dealing with the IDP situation.
