Technical Note

These subnational population totals were projected by applying intercensal population growth rates to 2015. Provincial-level average household size levels derived from the 2009 census, were then applied to the 2015 provincial and island population estimates, to derive an estimated number of households .

The Vanuatu population total of 271,658 is slightly higher than the total derived from the cohort-component method (268,053), which was derived by applying recent national-level fertility, mortality and international migration estimates.
