Interpretation:

The map illustrates the proportion of interviewed poor-rural households who are without any source of income.

A large proportion of the population vulnerable to hunger are without any means of income. The Targeting Exercise shows that of those households with an income source, casual labour ranks as the major source, for 29 percent of households. Beer brewing is the second most important source, for 18 percent of households. Crop production was reported to be an income source for just 3 percent of households.
