

Ethiopia

March 2018

Out of 916,678 registered refugees in Ethiopia, 65,750 are in need of resettlement in 2018.

UNHCR Ethiopia's resettlement submissions target for 2018 is 4,240 individuals to the USA, New Zealand, Sweden and Canada.

To date, 833 refugees were referred to the RSC for onward submission to resettlement countries. 575 refugees have been submitted and 230 departed to resettlement.

Highlights

- Resettlement is an invaluable protection tool for UNHCR Ethiopia as it addresses the specific needs of refugees who are vulnerable due to their experiences in their country of origin and/or whose safety, health or other fundamental rights are at risk in Ethiopia, by providing them an opportunity to rebuild their lives in a new country.
- Resettlement remains the primary durable solution available to refugees in Ethiopia due to the continued instability in neighboring countries rendering voluntary repatriation untenable. Opportunities for local integration remain limited although the future looks bright in this regard with Ethiopia as a focus country for the Comprehensive Refugee Response Framework (CRRF).
- Resettlement as a durable solution is available only to those refugees who meet very precise criteria. Although over 65,000 refugees in Ethiopia satisfy these criteria, the primary constraint on resettlement abroad is the quota provided by countries of resettlement, which is far too low to meet current need.
- As resettlement numbers are dictated by quota and not need, resettlement is not a right that can be claimed by refugees.
- UNHCR Ethiopia identifies and addresses the needs of the vulnerable within all refugee populations hosted in the country, including those with specific needs as well as those in protracted situations. The main refugee populations resettled abroad from Ethiopia are Eritreans, Somalis, South Sudanese, Sudanese as well as a few refugees from the Great Lakes.
- UNHCR Ethiopia's resettlement submissions target for 2018 is set at 4,150 refugees, mainly to the USA. However, UNHCR continued to advocate for resettlement quota with different countries and has secured submissions to New Zealand (130 individuals), Sweden (250 individuals) and Canada (800 individuals) for 2018.

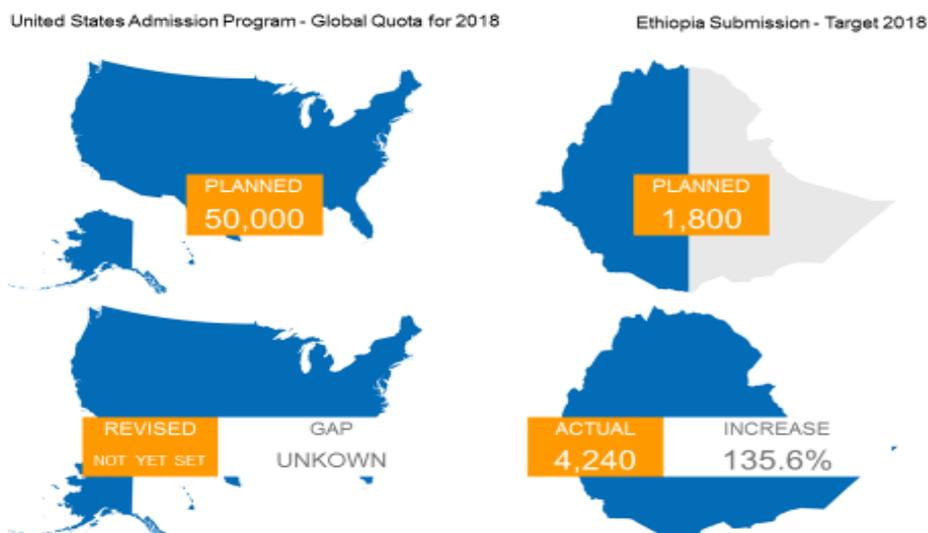

- As of March 2018, 833 refugees were referred to the Regional Service Centre in Nairobi for onward submission to resettlement countries. 575 refugees have been submitted to resettlement countries and 230 departed, around 60% of them to the USA and the remainder to Canada, Australia, Finland and Sweden.

STRATEGIC PRIORITIES

- In light of reduced admissions to the United States Refugee Admissions Program (USRAP) since 2017, UNHCR continues to prioritize refugees who have urgent resettlement needs for submission to the United States;
- UNHCR will continue to strengthen its identification mechanisms by liaising with partners and by enhancing the identification of vulnerable refugees with resettlement needs;
- UNHCR will continue to advocate for resettlement as a durable solution and will work with resettlement countries to increase interest in resettling refugees from Ethiopia;
- While still advocating for resettlement as the primary durable solution available to refugees in Ethiopia, UNHCR will continue to promote complementary legal pathways for refugees, including private sponsorship, family reunification and the establishment of humanitarian corridors, and will work closely with the Ethiopian government in the implementation of the CRRF.

CHALLENGES

The substantial reduction in the 2017 US Refugee Admissions Program (USRAP) has resulted in a drastic reduction of Ethiopia's resettlement quota in 2017 and 2018, though in the beginning of 2018, the quota has picked up again especially when US started to accept submissions for Somalis and South Sudanese.
