The Bangladeshi communities were the first to respond to the massive influx of Rohingya refugees in 2017, providing lifesaving assistance together with the Government of Bangladesh. The rapid increase of population however has strained the already meagre local community resources, infrastructure, public services and affected the economy, particularly in Ukhiya and Teknaf sub-districts. Rise of prices of food and transportation, pressure on water resources and basic services, environmental and infrastructure degradation (e.g. roads), and competition for jobs have contributed to increased social tensions between refugees and host community.

UNHCR recognizes the generosity of local families in assisting refugees and the need to help these communities cope with the influx. UNHCR is working with local government and partners to support communities near refugee settlements. To this effect, quick impact projects (QIPs) are small-scale community-based projects implemented in a short period of time which directly impact the targeted community. UNHCR has also provided livelihood support to the poorest and distributed family kits (tarpaulin, wire, rope, bucket and two sleeping mats) to local families affected by the monsoon.

In addition, UNHCR has repaired public buildings and infrastructure in order to restore host community’s capacity to serve local needs, help foster critical support for hosting refugees and therefore create a more favorable environment for refugee protection.

The projects are part of UNHCR’s commitment to work with the host community to enhance and develop their capacity in a quick and meaningful way.

Progress
UNHCR works with local and international organisations – BRAC, Gonoshasthaya Kendra (GK), NGO Forum for Public Health, Technical Assistance Inc. (TAI), and the Adventist Development and Relief Agency (ADRA) to support the Bangladeshi communities. Equally, UNHCR works with the Bangladeshi authorities and communities to identify projects that will yield value. The following progress has been made to date:

- 65 infrastructures, basic services and schools improved and renovated in Ukhiya and Teknaf sub-districts throughout 2018.
- 30,000 family kits distributed to host families affected by natural disasters.
- 120,000+ beneficiaries from refugee and host communities.

UNHCR is strengthening the protection environment for refugees through:

1. Ongoing consultation with local communities affected by the refugee influx
2. Livelihood support to affected communities particularly the poorest including women
3. Income-generating activities with short implementation period and direct impact to local communities and the local economy

In addition, UNHCR has repaired public buildings and infrastructure in order to restore host community’s capacity to serve local needs, help foster critical support for hosting refugees and therefore create a more favorable environment for refugee protection.

The projects are part of UNHCR’s commitment to work with the host community to enhance and develop their capacity in a quick and meaningful way.

12 out of 22 quick impact projects in education, water and sanitation, health, shelter and energy completed

26 out of 55 schools renovated with additional classrooms, buses, computer labs and latrines

30,000 family kits delivered to local communities, including 4,300 to the poorest

711 destitute women received livelihoods support and 1,172 trained towards graduation from extreme poverty
Challenges going forward

- The need for more in-depth evidence-based assessments to understand host community needs.
- Weather related events impede on the ability to complete projects within short period of time.
- High level of interest in QIPs results in many requests for interventions, which increases time spent vetting for beneficial projects.

Way forward

UNHCR plans to work closer with development actors to scale up its interventions into more substantial ventures. This collaboration will identify development potential that help strengthen resilience and social cohesion through support to the poorest members of the host community. Together with partner organizations and the international community, UNHCR is also exploring ways for greater engagement with affected communities to harness improvement ideas that the communities would be interested to benefit from.

Working in Partnership

UNHCR co-chairs the Strategic Executive Group together with the UN Resident Coordinator and IOM. The Refugee Agency leads on the protection response for all refugees, and heads a Protection Working Group in Cox’s Bazar. UNHCR welcomes its valuable partnership with a number of UN agencies and coordinates the delivery of its assistance with humanitarian partners through a number of working groups under the Inter-Sector Coordination Group (ISCG). UNCHR’s main government counterpart is the Ministry of Disaster Management and Relief and its Cox’s Bazar-based Refugee Relief and Repatriation Commissioner (RRRC). UNCHR staff work closely with the Camp-in-Charge officials in different refugee settlements, as well as a range of international and national actors. It has a strong network of 28 partners, including:
