

Home / Where We Work

Combatting Practices Harmful to Women and Girls in Nepal

WHERE WE WORK

Global Presence
 Asia Regional Office
 East Africa Regional Office

Empowering women and girls is not only the right and fair thing to do, it also makes economic sense. Countries that invest in promoting the social and economic status of women tend to have lower poverty rates than those that do little to address gender inequality.

In many countries, harmful practices, such as child marriage, increase the discrimination and stigmatization of women and girls at different stages of their lives, contributing to their marginalization and low social and economic status.

Working in partnership with UNFPA Nepal, ICRW is documenting and analyzing key harmful practices in the country, and based on this information, formulating strategies to combat them by engaging men and boys, parents and communities.

Duration: 2013 - 2014

Funder: UNFPA

Partners: UNFPA

Project Director: Ravi Verma

Location(s):

Nepal

Send to a friend

| Print

| Tweet 0

| Like Be the first of your friends to like this.

RELATED NEWS

ICRW publication featured as top 5 to make a mark in 2013

The Guardian lists ICRW's report 'Addressing Comprehensive Needs of Adolescent Girls in India,' as top five publications that made a mark in 2013 in highlighting the need to keep the needs of...

More »

Using Photography to Evaluate Project Impact

As researchers, it is sometimes easy to become engrossed in the mechanics of the research process – fretting over sample size, quality control, response bias and other technicalities. Admittedly, there are moments when we fail to really “see” the actual people our research strives to help.

More »

First U.S. Ambassador-at-Large for Global Women's Issues to be Honored

Related Projects

Combatting Practices Harmful to Women and Girls in Nepal

Empowering women and girls is not only the right and fair thing to do, it also makes economic sense. Countries that invest in promoting the social and economic status of women tend to have lower poverty rates than those that do little to address...

Expanding the Evidence Base for Primary Prevention of Gender-based Violence: Multi-country Evaluations of School-based Interventions in Asia

ICRW and Partners for Prevention will conduct a randomized controlled trial of school-based, violence prevention interventions for young adolescents across three countries in Asia: Vietnam, India and Bangladesh. The intervention in each site...

Advancing Adolescent Sexual and Reproductive Health Indicators in MesoAmerica

In April 2013, ICRW produced a critical review of currently collected indicators to measure adolescent sexual and reproductive health (ASRH). The report from this work provided a summary of the current state of knowledge about ASRH in...

Search for More Projects »

Related Publications

Child Marriage in South Asia: Realities, Responses and the Way Forward

Child marriage is a serious human rights crisis and one of the most pressing development concerns in the world today. Defined as marriage...

Preparing Girls and Women for 21st Century Success: Intel® Teach Findings

Intel® Teach is reshaping the global educational landscape to better prepare teachers and students for success in a 21st century economy....

I Know. I Want. I Dream.

In 2009, ICRW published Girls Speak: A New Voice in Global Development as the fourth report of the Girls Count report series. Four years...

More Publications »

at National Press Club on November 8

Media Advisory:What: The International Center for Research on Women (ICRW) is honoring Melanne Verveer, who in 2009 was appointed by President Obama...

More »

ICRW Report: Intel Teach Program Transforms Classrooms, Girls and Women

There was a hum of discussion as I entered the classroom at an all-girls school in Jordan, where walls were decorated with cutouts of bumblebees. Girls were out of their seats, hovering over each other's desks. But they weren't misbehaving; they were discussing project findings and comparing results with their classmates. I concluded that this level of activity should be expected among a class that nick named itself the "busy bees".

More »

Multimedia

Jeff Edmeades discusses child marriage on BBC Radio

Jeff Edmeades discusses the situation of child marriage in Ethiopia and Afghanistan. His 5-minute live interview with BBC Radio 5 begins at mark 3:20

Read More »

ICRW Parivartan: Coaching Boys into Men

The International Center for Research on Women's (ICRW) Parivartan program uses cricket to draw in boys and young men to teach that aggressive...

Read More »

Boys and Girls for Equality

In India, it's unusual for the school setting to be used for anything other than academic instruction. But that's exactly where an International...

Read More »

VIEW SITE MAP

© 2010 International Center for Research on Women (ICRW)

1120 20th St NW
Suite 500 North
Washington, D.C. 20036

Tel: 202.797.0007
Fax: 202.797.0020
E-mail: info@icrw.org

News & Commentary RSS Careers
Press Center RSS Contact Us
Publications RSS Privacy
Multimedia RSS Credits
ICRW Perspectives Blog RSS

ICRW is an Organization You Can Trust: In 2012, over 93% of ICRW's annual operating expenses were used to directly support research and programs to benefit women and girls in developing countries.

ICRW is a registered 501(c)3 nonprofit organization. All donations are tax deductible to the fullest extent allowed by law. DONATE.

ICRW received a 4-star rating for sound fiscal management and commitment to accountability and transparency, the highest rating from Charity Navigator. ICRW is also certified as a Best in America charity and is a Member of Global Impact, an alliance of 80 U.S.-based International Development organizations.