33% of international migrants¹ are from G20 countries²

50% of international migrants¹ reside in G20 countries²

122 million migrants live in G20 countries,² representing 2.6% of the total population

G20 Member States:
- Argentina
- Australia
- Brazil
- Canada
- China
- European Union (not highlighted)
- France
- Germany
- India
- Indonesia
- Italy
- Japan
- Republic of Korea
- Mexico
- Russia
- Saudi Arabia
- South Africa
- Turkey
- United Kingdom
- United States

2017 Guest countries:
- Guinea
- Netherlands
- Norway
- Senegal
- Singapore
- Spain
- Vietnam

G20 Member States:
- Argentina
- Australia
- Brazil
- Canada
- China
- European Union (not highlighted)
- France
- Germany
- India
- Indonesia
- Italy
- Japan
- Republic of Korea
- Mexico
- Russia
- Saudi Arabia
- South Africa
- Turkey
- United Kingdom
- United States

Remittances to and from G20 countries³

32% is the highest share of inflowing remittances to GDP: Nepal, 2015

7.3% is the global average cost of sending remittances³

Notes: (1) An international migrant is a person who is living in a country other than his or her country of birth. See UN Department of Economic and Social Affairs, International Migration Report 2015, p. 4. (2) Figures calculated using UN Department of Economic and Social Affairs, Trends in International Migrant Stock: The 2008 Revision, May 2009, and 2015 Revision, December 2015, unless otherwise noted. (3) World Bank “Annual Remittance Data” as of April 2017
MigFacts: Migration and the G20

Top 5 Countries of origin in the G20

- Mexico - 12.2 Million
- India - 6 Million
- China - 5.5 Million
- Bangladesh - 4.8 Million
- Ukraine - 4.2 Million

Government policies towards immigration (2013)

About 73% of the countries surveyed have policies to maintain or not intervene in the levels of immigration. 15% pursue a policy to decrease immigration and about 11% are looking to increase it.

2 out of 3 of all adults that were planning to migrate permanently to another country within the next 12 months were planning to go to a G20 country between 2010 and 2015.