NEPAL EARTHQUAKE

11:56 local time - 25 April 2015  Epicenter: Lamjung District (north-west) of Kathmandu

FLASH APPEAL - April - July 2015 (US$)

$415 MILLION needed for vital humanitarian relief

130,033 houses destroyed and 85,856 damaged. Government estimates.

24,000 internally displaced people (IDPs) hosted in 13 camps in Kathmandu.

5,582 people with 11,175 injured, according to NEOC.

400,000 families require early recovery assistance. Estimated numbers.

3 million people estimated to be in need of food assistance with 1.4 million needing priority assistance.

Temporary health services provided in makeshift tents outside district HQs in the worst affected areas.

Mobile companies donated SIM cards and are providing free voice call services to those affected.

Based on preliminary data and assessment of damage, over 3 million people require food assistance with 1.4 million needing priority assistance.

Four mobile storage units currently operational at the humanitarian staging area (HSA) at Kathmandu Airport storing health, shelter and other relief items.

Vitamin A, micronutrient supplements and deworming needed for 362,000 children (6-59 months) and 185,000 women (incl. pregnant and breastfeeding).

20 national disaster response teams deployed for tracing and reunification of separated children.

The Water, Sanitation and Hygiene (WASH) Cluster aims to respond to the needs of an estimated 4.2 million people.

Information Source: Nepal Earthquake 2015: Situation Report No. 07 (as of 30 April 2015)