PRCS response teams distributing relief items in the West Bank (PRCS)

Summary:

The announced heavy rain fall and snow storms hit the West Bank and Gaza on 10 December 2013 and are still affecting the Palestinian population in West Bank and Palestine. The heavy rain and snow has generated floods in several parts of Palestine and thousands of families have been evacuated from their houses. The extreme weather conditions has also caused several deaths, including a baby in Gaza who was reported dead, as the family's home was inundated.

PRCS proactively activated its four operation rooms in the West Bank and Gaza on Monday 10 December in preparation for the expected mountaintop snowstorm announced to hit parts of the country Tuesday 11 in the evening and continue for days, hitting hardest on Thursday 12. PRCS emergency teams have since been operating day and night to respond to the emerging needs caused by the snow, heavy rain and flooding; primarily providing non-food relief and temporary shelter items, first aid and assistance to more than 20,000 persons. During the period, PRCS has moreover supported the evacuation of almost 10,000 people suffering from the extreme weather conditions.

The Situation

As the winter storm, extreme heavy rain fall and subsequent flooding has deteriorated throughout Palestine from 10 December, PRCS relief operations have been on-going throughout the West Bank and Gaza in coordination with national and local authorities as well as international and local organizations.

From 10 December to 16 December 2013 , PRCS emergency teams have been working day and night to provide first aid and assistance, including the following relief item :- tarpaulins, blankets, mattresses, hygiene kits, kitchen sets, heaters, pillows, tents, water gallons and tents - to more than 20,000 persons in the West Bank and Gaza, including to Bedouins and refugee communities living in vulnerable constructions. Parts of the country was left without in electricity for days, and large parts of Gaza have become a massive lake with two meters of water engulfing homes and stranding thousands of people.

Benefiting from previous DREF support regarding this same type of emergency, PRCS National Disaster Response Teams (NDRT) and Emergency Medical Services (EMS) have been able to provide assistance throughout the areas of West Bank and Gaza affected by the extreme weather conditions, including the areas of Hebron, Bethlehem, Jerusalem, Ramallah, Al-Bireh, Jenin, Nablus, Tubas, Gaza Strip. The PRCS has distributed goods from its existing contingency stocks (from previous DREF support) and is now seeking to replenish these stocks and procure / distribute additional relief items for those affected

In total the emergency response teams have distributed relief items to 5,862 individuals, as part of the assistance to 20,000 people mentioned above. Moreover PRCS evacuated 1,771 families (9,479 individuals) based on specific needs. Furthermore PRCS has assisted sick people, pregnant women and others in the West Bank and Gaza to get to the hospital, as well as provided assistance in several cases of traffic accidents and other incidents caused by the bad weather conditions. With more days of rain and snow expected in December and January, the number of families who will need relief assistance is expected to increase further during the coming weeks and months and further assistance could be sought if the situation develops.

The table below outlines the distribution of tarpaulins, blankets and mattresses – as per 15 December 2013:

Location	Families	Persons	Tarpaulins	Blankets	Mattresses
Central West Bank	46	356	46	252	50
Southern West Bank	22	167	0	80	51
Northern West Bank	55	352	14	332	151
Total Gaza Strip	3,323	19,950	4,030	4,190	1,552
Total	3,446	20,825	4,090	4,854	1,804

In addition to the distribution of tarpaulins, blankets and mattresses, PRCS has distributed 557 hygiene kits, 38 kitchen sets, 453 heaters, 100 pillows, 698 sleeping bags and 320 water gallons to vulnerable people in the West Bank and Gaza, in accordance with the specific needs, from existing stocks.

Moreover vulnerable communities have been provided with information and strategies as to how to cope with the extreme weather conditions and flooding, through the provision of information and messaging from the volunteers. The printed information on flood prevention / mitigation now also needs to be replenished.

Coordination and partnerships

PRCS is a member of the High Council of Civil Defence that was initiated by the Palestinian authorities and has long been supporting the Civil Defence in contingency planning and response.

Since the onset of the emergency there has been ongoing coordination between PRCS, the Palestinian Civil defence, local and national authorities, including governorates and municipalities, UN agencies as well as within the RCRC Movement.

Furthermore PRCS, the Palestinian Civil Defence and the Governorates in cooperation with OCHA has developed an online system to improve coordination during the winter storm - an online interactive mapping system that indicates emergency needs by colour codes. There are five core field assessors who are also the focal points tasked with inputting needs information into the online system:- OCHA, UNRWA, the Civil Defence, Governorates and PRCS. Once the information is inputted, it can be used to monitor and coordinate response activities and this has been used to inform this DREF request.

Red Cross and Red Crescent action

The DREF request primarily targets the replenishment of PRCS stocks (approximately 60%) for what has been distributed so far, and the purchasing and distribution of additional items for the continuation of the emergency throughout the winter (approximately 40%). Thus, as the on-going operation is benefitting from previous stocks, the current DREF support will help ensure the ongoing response to current needs and the preparedness and immediate response in future disasters.

Moreover the DREF support will help equip PRCS emergency teams with necessary equipment (water proof shoes and clothes and vehicle maintenance) to respond to this and future disasters.
