NW Syria	Lara*, 7, her brother Adam*,10, and mother, Maryam*: Lara*, 7, lives in a displacement camp in Idlib with her eight siblings as the family was forced to flee their home three years ago because of shelling. When Lara* was told that she was leaving their home she put her toys in a bag and carried them with her during their displacement journey. She decided to never open the bag of toys until the family would be back home.	Interview, GVs and photos Content link here	 "I wish to live in any country other than Syria, where it's safe and there are schools and toys. It's not safe here, the sound of dogs scare me and the tent is not safe."
	Ziad*, 10, his brother Fadi*, 12, and grandfather, Ahmed*: Ziad*, and his four siblings are from rural Aleppo and they were displaced when their village was bombed and Ziad* was out of school for a year. During the escalation of violence, the family would sometimes shelter in a cave. Their economic situation became worse so Ziad* give up on his education and started working as a floor polisher for which he earned around $3 per week. The children's father travelled to Libya and the family hasn't heard from him since. Ziad* and his brother Fadi*, were registered back into school by Save the Children's partners.	Interview, GVs and photos Content link here	 "If we lived outside Syria the situation would be better. We would have electricity and everything else. We would not have shelling and we would find safety and there would be schools and toys."
NE Syria	Yousef*, 13 and his mother Layla*, 43: Yousef*, 13, lost his father, his older brother and his baby twin sisters in the conflict. The family used to live in the Aleppo countryside but are now living in a displacement camp in North East Syria. His mother Layla* was also diagnosed with cancer and Yousef* is terrified of being separated from her. In the photo he holds the shoes of his late older brother.	Interview, GVs and photos Content link here	 "In ten years of war I lost my father and siblings and my education." "I hope to live in Europe because there is no shelling or fighting jets nor conflict there."

NE Syria	Nour*, 12 Nour* is from Aleppo but she and her family were displaced many times during the conflict. Her father joined an armed group and was later arrested. They now live in Al Hol camp. Nour* was out of school for several years and when she arrived at the camp she could not read or write. She now attends a Save the Children's school in the camp.	Interview, GVs and photos Content link here	 “A plane started dropping papers on us threatening to get out or whoever would stay would get bombed. So we got out and we fled.” “War made me reach the age of 11 without knowing how to read or write.”
	Khansaa, 30, Khansaa was herself displaced to Al Hol Camp four years ago. She is now a Save the Children's Education Facilitator in the camp and teaches Nour*.	1x interview and GVs Content link here	 “The children’s situation is tragic but when we provide them psychosocial support and support them, they get better.”

Lebanon (follow up)	Nada* and her mother, Hala*, 39: Nada*, 17, was born in Syria with a disability that affected her nervous system and cognitive development. Nada* and her family fled from Syria to Lebanon in 2012. They now live in Akkar, Lebanon. Save the Children first met Nada* in 2017 and gathered content (see links). The vlogs, four years later, are produced by Nada* and her mother. They talk about how COVID- 19 has impacted them and made their situation even more limiting. They don't want to return to Syria and at the same time their quality of life in Lebanon is terrible.	2021 video logs and photos link here 2017 content link here	  "I don't want to go back and live in Syria again. I don't want to stay in Lebanon either. No matter where I go, if we go to school, they bully us and tell us they don't want us."
Turkey	Kubra*,13, and her father Hassan*, 48: Kubra*, her father and siblings fled from Syria to Turkey eight years ago because of the conflict. Kubra*s mother was killed in an explosion when Kubra* was just one year old. They fled Aleppo to live in a camp for displaced families bordering Turkey until they were able to cross into Turkey. However, on the journey one of her brothers, who was eight at the time, was killed in an attack. Kubra* says she does not remember much about her life in Syria. All she wants is to start studying again.	Video interview and photos Link here	 "Now for example, I don't know anything about Syria, I don't know anything about the town in Syria we are from. I wish I could get an education to continue studying, God willing. If I can't study here, then I wish to travel to another country so I can study." Kubra* "It's impossible to go back to Syria at the moment. If there is no security I can't go back, because I lost my wife, I lost my house, I lost my son in Syria." Hassan*
Netherlands	Amina*, 14: Amina* remembers how the conflict in Syria turned their lives upside down. Her mother was arrested for helping the poor and displaced and her friends were killed in an airstrike on her school. First the family fled to Turkey on foot where they stayed for six months and later they made it to Greece and then the Netherlands where they now live. Amina* says she feels very at home in	Video interview and photos Link here	 "My school was bombed.
