The Emergency Response Roster (ERR) is OCHA’s central mechanism for the deploying of internal surge during the initial emergency phase. There are approximately 35 OCHA staff on the ERR who can deploy short notice, usually for six weeks but sometimes up to three months. Staff are placed on the ERR for a six-month period, with supervisors pre-clearing their possible deployment. Since 2007 the ERR has deployed 192 staff for a total of 8,701 deployment days to some 40 countries.

Deployments by date:
- 9 Jan 2008: Cyclone Nargis hits Myanmar
- 2009: South Ossetia war
- 2009: Pakistan refugee crisis
- 2010: Haiti earthquake
- 2010: Pakistan floods
- 2010: South Yemen insurgency
- 2010: Cyclone Nargis hits Myanmar
- 2010: South Yemen insurgency
- 2011: Pakistan floods
- 2012: Protests start in Libya
- 2012: Protests start in the Syrian Arab Republic
- 2012: Sahel crisis

Deployments by role:
- Admin/Finance
- Civil-military coordination
- Humanitarian affairs
- Information and communication technologies
- Information management
- Public information

Deployments by Gender:
- Male: 128
- Female: 64
- Total: 192

Deployments by Role:
- Humanitarian Affairs: 117
- Civil-Military Coordination: 5
- Information Management: 35
- Admin/Finance: 24
- Public Information: 6
- Information and Communication Technologies: 5
- Other: 2

Deployments by Level:
- Director: 1
- General Service (G4-5-6-7): 17
- National Officers (NOA-B-C): 42
- Professional (P2-3-4-5): 130

The boundaries and names shown and the designations used on these maps do not imply official endorsement or acceptance by the United Nations. Dotted line represents approximately the Line of Control in Jammu & Kashmir agreed upon by India and Pakistan. The final status of Jammu & Kashmir has not yet been agreed upon by the parties.

Source: Emergency Response Roster/OCHA