The farming system should be based on livestock production, but it can be intensified with the natural conditioning factors, should therefore be based on both livestock and crop production. The rainy season or to the occurrence of relatively short rainy seasons. In either event, less than 1000mm per annum in areas lying below 1700m altitude, and more than 900mm.