In this edition of ACLED's State of Syria infographic series, Syria Research Manager Muaz A. and Researcher Nick Grinstead map key developments in the Syrian conflict through the third quarter of 2019. Past editions and further analysis of the Syrian conflict can be found here. For an explanation of ACLED's methodology for mapping territorial control in Syria, click here. © 2019 Armed Conflict Location & Event Data Project (ACLED). All rights reserved. The State of Syria July-September 2019 Muaz A. is a Syrian researcher with experience in providing security analysis to non-profit organizations implementing projects in Syria. With a civil engineering background, his research focuses on reconstruction efforts in the transitional phase in Syria. Nick Grinstead Nick Grinstead is a researcher focusing on the political economy of conflict-affected and fragile countries in the Levant. He applies his years of regional experience to his analytical rigor with an eye toward identifying under-looked trends in conflicts. Nick is also developing an understanding of conflicts in sub-Saharan Africa, where he is currently based. Tagged on: Syria Muaz A and Nick Grinstead ← Regional Overview: Asia 29 September – 5 October 2019 Back to Analysis

October 10, 2019

In this edition of ACLED’s State of Syria infographic series, Syria Research Manager Muaz A. and Researcher Nick Grinstead map key developments in the Syrian conflict through the third quarter of 2019.

Past editions and further analysis of the Syrian conflict can be found here. For an explanation of ACLED’s methodology for mapping territorial control in Syria, click here.