ISIS has operated 292 incidents from the beginning of 2020 till the end of August. The majority of incidents happened in Diyala, followed by Anbar, Kirkuk, Salah al-Din, Mosul, Erbil, and Baghdad, in which the least amount of incidents occurred in 2020. As the COVID-19 pandemic started to spread, the ISIS group seized the opportunity, and the number of incidents increased especially during the curfew period.

Another reason for ISIS attacks was that most of the Coalition Forces drew back and reduced their missions in Iraq and handed over the control to the local Security Forces. Additionally, some other coalition troops were recalled to their home countries to help with the domestic response to the COVID-19 outbreak.

This situation report entails very crucial and exhaustive data on explosive hazard incidents and week to week data coverage necessary for the humanitarian actors to prioritize their prompt humanitarian response to the affected areas and communities.
