UNHCR

In light of the continued insecurity in the country, a UNHCR national colleague received information that a vessel with about 300 Yemenis left from Bab Al Mandab to Djibouti during the morning hours of 3 April 2015. Their exact areas of origin in Yemen as well as gender and age breakdown remain unknown. UNHCR Aden earlier alerted colleagues in Djibouti about such anticipated movements and requested appropriate interventions with relevant authorities in Djibouti. Follow up is being made with colleagues about the arrival of the said vessel in Djibouti, and feedback will be reported in subsequent updates.

UNDP reported, in their displacement tracking, that on 3 April 2015, a total of 17 families/90 individuals were displaced from Lahj (1hh/3 indiv), Tuban (7hh/42 indiv), Aden (5hh/27 indiv) and Da'ar Sa'ad (4hh/18 indiv) to Al-Kowd in Abyan governorate. They are said to be residing in different homes in the southern governorates. A number of families are also reported to be in Ja'ar, Al-diw, and Al-haroor districts, but details are yet unavailable.

UNOCHA is contemplating on undertaking assessments on displacements in the south, but awaiting a conducive security environment to do so. At the moment, Abyan is reported to be the only feasible governorate, but plans are yet to be finalized.
