SITE CLASSIFICATION

Relocation Site

These can be planned by either the local authorities only, or in combination with CCCM site planners, thereby ensuring that appropriate standards are followed. In some cases, sites have been initially planned by the local authorities, necessitating re-planning to meet standards as possible. Relocation Sites aim to provide an appropriate amount of land per household to become viable areas for permanent settling, in case IDPs are not willing to return to their areas of origin. As per government plan, farmland should be provided in the surrounding area of the sites, enabling livelihood activities.

Temporary Accommodation Site

Temporary Accommodation Sites are areas with basic infrastructure used by IDPs – ideally – for a short period of time. Usually these are preexisting areas such as school buildings, community halls, etc.

Host Community Extension

Host Community Extension are areas that have been identified by Posto level leadership. Often, communities move to these areas due to wider family ties, and local arrangements for land use which may need future considerations in relations to HLP matters.
